EDITORIAL

Menlo Park's House Cleaning

Now that the city election is over, and we hope all hard feelings have been buried, even though the Editor was accused of "selling out" and being "Un-Christian", because of an advocated house cleaning, which ever side won. The Editor believes that now is the time to start the clean-up.

Contrary to the expressed ideas of some, the house cleaning advocated does not refer to office holders, or the city's official family, but to existing conditions.

Many complaints have come to the Recorder office regarding the Carnivals that arrive here pretty regularly. There are many complaints made against them, viz., Unsanitary conditions that prevail, the class of entertainment that is offered, the condition they leave the lots on which they are located in, the taking of business from local people who pay business licenses for protection, and many other faults. While we are not against good, clean amusement (in fact we encourage it), we feel that if carnivals are permitted to come to Menlo Park the class of entertainment provided should be materially improved.

This said editorial was an honest expression of opinion, both of the Editor, many business people and residents of the city. It was not aimed at any one in particular or any group in general. We believe that Police Commissioner Henry Carroll has put forth every effort in his power to protect our citizens, both young and old, from harm; both bodily and morally and deserves great credit for his efforts, but we also believe he needs some assistance by way of legislation.

Play Safe

In the first two months of this year the lives of 940 persons have been saved through a reduction in the number of traffic deaths below those of the same months of last year in the United States. February was the fourth consecutive month to show a reduction below last year's figures. Prize winning cities in the National Safety Council's contest have just been announced. Sacramento is the only California city listed as a winner, showing 60% reduction in traffic fatalities. Average for all reporting cities was 18.5 killed per 100,000 population, while that of the seven cities winning awards in various population groups was 12.3 These winning cities all had organized, sustained traffic safety programs. Let us see what we can do in San Mateo County this year.

Symphony Group At San Jose Thursday

The musical tvent of the month is set for next Thursday evening, April 21, when the San Jose Symphony Orchestra gives its second annual concert in the Civic Auditorium, beginning at 8:30 p. m. William Van den Burg, assistant conductor of the San Francisco Symphony will conduct, and the phenomenal childe violinist of San Francisco, eleven_year-old Mildren Lind, will appear as the soloist.

Willem Van den Burg has receivtd great praise for his conducting. The San Francisco papers have been lavish in their enthusiasm each time that he has conducted the San Francisco Symphony. Alexandtr Fried of the San Francisco Examiner wrote, "As conductor, Van den Burg revealed the exceptional taste, skill and musicianship that have become familiar in him." Mr. Van dtn Burg is reported as saying that he is confident of an excellent, brilliant performance from the San Jose Symphony. He personally chose Mildred Lind as soloist, havnig a conviction of her unusual taltnt and amazing dexterity.

The San Jose Symphony, like similiar bodies in Pasadena, Fresno, Sacramento and cities throughout the United States, is composed of doctors, lawyers, ousintss men and women, amateur and professional musicians, and for the concert the instrumentation is completed by a few members of the San Francisco Symphony. A year ago a group of men and women starttd playing together, paying two dollars each monthly to pay for Mr. Van den Burg to come from San Francisco to direct them. The group now numbers around tighty, and is the most vital community music making group in the city of San Jose. It is giving an outlet to graduate music students, and to older men and women who have never lost thtir love for their fiddles, as well as giving to the community an opportunity to hear the great symphonic music at low prices directed by a great conductor.

Tickets for Thursday's conctrt are now selling at the auditorium box office. Students are only 25c.

A Correction

In an editorial last week the Editor stated that Mr. Weeden was elected to the city council by the largest vote of any candidate. This statement was made in good faith and without the intention of favoring any candidate. We were called on the statement and on getting official figures from the city clerk find that we were in error by some 16 votes. The score stood:

	1932	1934
Weeden	432
Hart	431
Cooper		447
Carroll		440

We are sorry that anyone had his feelings hurt and again say that it was not intended that way.

New Building For Business Section

On Wednesday Building Inspector John Glunz issued a permit for the removal of the old building on El Camino Real, north of Derry's feed store, which houses the Taxi office, McLaughlin's Shoe Repair Shop, Al Davis shoe shine parlor and Mrs. Hoss' American Restaurant and the Greyhound Bus office.

A new building will be built on this property, which according to the building permit will cost $8500, being a frame structure of stucco finish and with a fire-proof roof.

The new building will be built on the new set-back line and will materially aid in the factor of safety of this block. This will leave only the brick building on the corner of Santa Cruz avenue and El Camino Real and the old wooden structure housing the cleaners, the Class Barber shop and Marley's Smoke shop on the corner of Oak Grove avenue and El Camino Real.

It is understood that the new structure will be a big addition to the city's business center, both from a standpoint of beauty as well as safety.

Incumbents Kept In Office By Big Vote

At the municipal election held on Tuesday Henry Carroll and James E. Cooper were returned to the city council by substantial majorities, and Captain Hugo May was elected to fill the third seat vacated by Dunn by the substantial majority of 127 votes.

Of 1462 registered voters 902 went to the polls and cast a ballot for the man whom they considered best for the place. This leaves 560 voters whom were not interested in the election enough to take the time to vote..

Police Commissioner was the favorite and high man wth 555 tally after his name.

There were 454 ballots cast at the city hall and 448 at the Fremont school, a difference of 6 votes in the two precincts.

The vote stood as follows:

	Hall	School	Total
Carroll	266	289	555
Cooper	262	278	540
May	237	256	493
Weeden	195	171	366
Hart	195	158	349
Concannon	185	156	341

Tuesday, election day, passed off in a very quiet fashion, much as any other day, with for the most part a spirit of goodfellowship prevailing. It is to be regretted that there were some misunderstanding that cause hard feelings, but elections are always so.

The new council will, it is understood, go on with an endeavor to boost Menlo Park, as the old one has done, and that in a satisfactory manner, is the large vote cast for the incumbents is any indication of public feeling.

Meet Your Son

Did you ever stand by the side of a once swiftly moving stream which had become jammed and choked with sticks and debris, watch the water rise and overflow its banks, diverted completely from is natural channel? That is the picture I have of a boy's mind when it is troubled by a "blockade". The jam may be started by a fear, a mistaken idea, a half-truth, a wrong—real or fancied—an unreasonable punishment, family trouble, a physical disability, or an obsession which temporarily absorbs the youngster's mind.

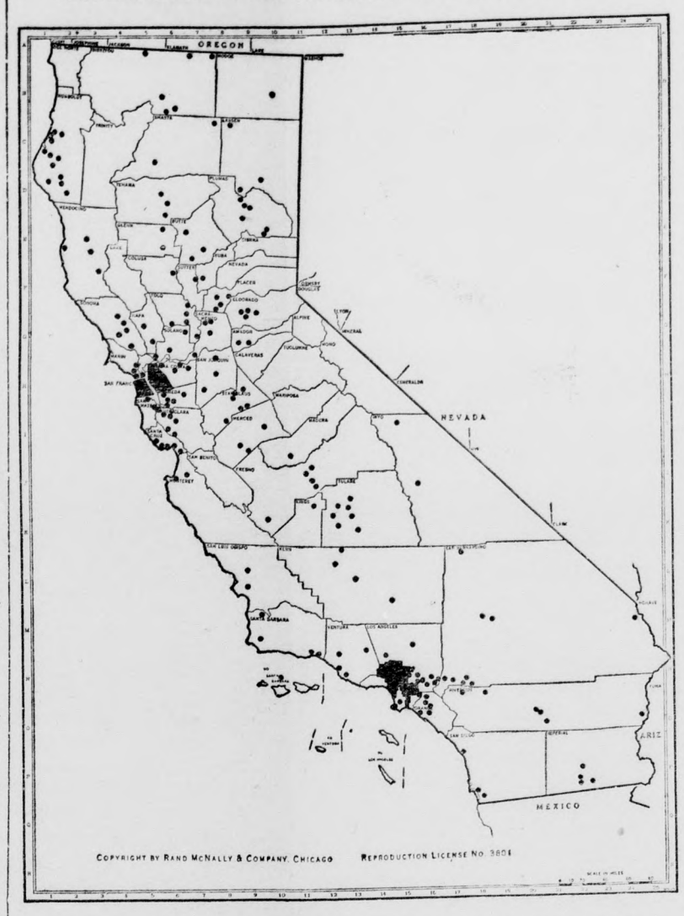

Mental blockades are not new to science. They are simply embryonic complexes. But because they are so prevalent, parents often fail to reconize their existence.

Mental blockades are like measles; very few children are immnue. At some time or another, during childhood, most youngsters get queer ideas, fears or fancies. Some, with the help and understanding of wise parents, trow them off easily; some brood over them until they become dangerous fixations and result in mental warp.

Undeniably, a boy's mental blockades are hard to get at, for they usually involve some idea which the boy seeks to hide. But his mind centers about the thing that's bothering him like a whirlpool, absorbing all his attention, disturbing his ego and upsetting his personality. He coddles his worry or grievance in secret—but in spite of himself, invariably flies distress signals of inner turmoil He may fall around behind i his studies. He may become irritabe, nervous, destructive. But if the underlying blockade can be discovered before it has created too deep an impression, it can be removed very promply, and he'll be back on the right track again.

While I do not advocate that mothers and fathers go sleuthing for trouble, examining every word and act of an adolescent though a partental magnifying glass, still still it is vitally important to be on he eler, o undersnd your boy as completely as you can. For unless it is natural for him to turn to you, he will shy away when he needs you most, burying deep the cause of his distrurbance. When the distress signals of an incipient mental blockade go up, that's the time when you'll reap he rewards for having kept close to your son.

Railroad Purchases in California

This map is one of a set of state maps recently presented to the special Senate committee investigating unemployment and relief by J. J. Pelley, President, Association of American Railroads, Washington, D. C. Each spot indicates a city or town where one or more railroads purchase materials and supplies. In California the railroads purchased materials and supplies in 220 cities and towns located in 47 of the 58 counties in the state.

LOW OIL SUPPLY

Serious engine damage can be caused if the car is not stopptd at once when there is evidence that the oil supply has become too low or deplettd. The usual indication is a knocking noise. Sometimes the motor will stop abruptly. Usually, running out of oil has very serios results and the motor should not be run again until inspected by a mechanic.

ECESSIVE OIL

An oversupply of oil in the crankcase may cause excessive carbon formation in ring grooves and combustion chambers.

When a windshield is not clean it will have a tendency to make approaching headlights appear to be glaring.

The Rocketship Soars—At New York World's Fair

NEW YORK — (Special)—The dream of the mechanical age and perhaps the commonplace event of the World of Tomorrow—a trip to Mars in a rocketship—will be produced in tangible form in steel and glass when a model working rocketport is placed into operation at the New York World's Fair 1939.

Now being constructed by Raymond Loewy, industrial designer, the operating planet-line will be part of a free, focal exhibit in the transportation section of the Fair.

More than a thousand visitors will be able to see the show at one time. After an interesting, activated display of transportation from the day of the cave man to the present, illumination in the auditorium will be shifted to spotlight the rocketport.

Airplanes, liners, railroad trains and taxicabs of futuristic design will bring passengers and twinkling elevators will begin loading the rocketship's cargo. When the time comes for departure, sirens will sound, machinery will hum, a giant crane will lift the rocketship and place it in the breech of the gun and a brilliant flash and an explosion will indicate that the world-folk are off on a visit to another planet.

By means of an ingenious invention resembling the shutter of a camera, placed in the sky-ceiling, the audience will seem to see the rocketship vanish into the vast reaches of space.

Jefferson's Birthday

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

"The immortality of Thomas Jefferson does not lie in any one of his achievements, but in his attitude toward mankind."

Again, as we observe the anniversary of his birth, Americans recall that tribute to the author of our Declaration of Independence.

What was his attitude? What would it be toward the problems of today? Jefferson's own recorded words answer such questions.

He believed whole-heartedly in the voice of the average citizen in government.

"That government," he said, "is the strongest of which every one feels himself a part.

"I consider the people who constitute a nation as the source of all authority in that nation."

He believed in the constant vigilance of the people over their government.

"Every government," he wrote, "degenerates when trusted to the rulers of the people alone. The people themselves, therefore, are its only safe depositories.

"Whenever the people are well-informed and things get so far wrong as to attract their notice, they may be relied upon to set them to rights.

"It behooves our citizens to be on their guard, to be firm in their principles, and full of confidence in themselves."

He believed in the American idea of balanced powers in government.

"The principle of the Constitution," he declared, "is that of a separation of Legislative, Executive and Judiciary functions, except in cases specified.

"If the three powers maintain their mutual independence . . . our government may last long, but not so if either can assume the authorities of the other.

"It is not by the consolidation or concentration of powers, but by the distribution that good government is effected."

He believed in the power of Congress as a direct representative of the will of the people.

"The authority of Congress," said Jefferson, "can never be wounded without injury to the present Union."

The American people remember those admonitions. They have demonstrated this by protests, both recently and in the past, against usurpations of power, or the surrender of their own or their representatives' voice in government.

And that is as eloquent a tribute to Jefferson as any uttered by great orators.

MANY OFFICES SERVING NORTHERN CALIFORNIA'S CENTERS OF POPULATION

Mrs. Knox Suggests 'Man-Pleaser' Salads

ALMOST thirty years ago, Mrs. Charles B. Knox, a widow with two young sons to support, took charge of her husband's gelatine factory in Johnstown, New York, hoping to be able to hold the business together until the boys were old enough to step into their father's place.

At the outset she determined to conduct the factory in a "woman's way." So she built a model experimental kitchen and carefully supervised the testing of recipes herself.

It was her "woman's way" to insist that every piece of brass, even down to the name-plate on the boiler in the engine room, be brilliantly polished; that closets and locker rooms be fresh and neat; the grounds around the factory beautifully landscaped. She abolished the rear entrance for employees, telling them: "We are all ladies and gentlemen here together."

Mrs. Charles B. Knox

Because Mrs. Knox runs her business a "woman's way," she realized that in order to help women solve the problems of planning meals, recipes should be developed for salads, meat and fish molds, and desserts, that have an especial appeal to the men in the family. Such recipes, Mrs. Knox felt, would be of practical aid to the housewife. For this reason she devised a number of special "man-pleaser" recipes which are sure-fire hits with the men. Of course, women like them, too. The secret of their success lies in the fact that the plain gelatine used as their base contains no sugar or factory flavoring and thus permits the full keen flavor of the fresh ingredients used in their preparation to be tasted.

These two recipes are for tart, tangy salads that are sure to win cheers from the men:

Tomato Salad Ring

(6 servings)

1 envelope plain unflavored gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2 cups canned or fresh tomatoes
½ bay leaf (if desired)
½ teaspoon salt
Stalk celery
A little Cayenne or pepper
1 tablespoonful mild vinegar or lemon juice
1 tablespoonful onion juice

Mix tomatoes, bay leaf, salt, celery and Cayenne or pepper and boil ten minutes. Soak gelatine in cold water about five minutes. Add to hot mixture and stir until dissolved. Add vinegar and onion juice (extracted by grating onion). Strain; turn into ring mold first rinsed in cold water; chill. (To fill 9-inch mold, double recipe.) When firm, unmold on lettuce. Fill center, if desired, with potato salad or cole slaw. Tomato juice may be used instead of canned or fresh tomatoes.

S. J. State Has Big Registration

The highest registration figure ever to be reached during the spring quarter at San Jose State college was realized recently when Registrar Joe West of the college announced that enrollment had reached 2840.

This figure is an increase of 207 over last year's spring enrollment, and represents a normal quarterly increase, Mr. West declared.

"There is always a falling off of attendance during the third quarter," he said, referring to a gradual drop from the fall quarter's 3000 mark.

A survey of enrollment figures during the last eight years shows a registration of 1912 students during the autumn of 1929, as compared with 3117 in the fall of 1937.

It is pretty hard to say exactly why we are growing," remarked the registrar.
